Welcome to the new-look Leisure Tourism Database

Leisure Tourism Database is a comprehensive and authoritative source of information on tourism, leisure, recreation, hospitality, and the economics and sociology of sport. The bibliographic database contains over 96,000 abstracts sourced from thousands of documents screened every week for the world-renowned CAB Abstracts database (to access, click the 'Abstracts database' tab at the top of the page). The website also presents around 2000 articles bringing you news and analysis from the worlds of tourism, leisure, sport, hospitality and recreation.

The homepage collates the latest content added to the site which you can explore by clicking the tabs below. You can also navigate, and see the full content, via the top menu bar. To see relevant content under different subjects, clicking on the browse tree on the left-hand menu (click on the '+' to expand categories) categorises content according to subject areas at different levels by running preset searches across the site and presenting the results under the different content types. To find all the news articles within broad editor-assigned categories, click the 'In brief and in depth' tab at the top of the page and then the subject titles to the right. For best results searching the bibliographic database, use the 'Abstracts database' tab.

We hope you find the site useful and, to further improve it, we welcome your feedback. Please send any comments to leisuretourism@cabi.org

Will the USA be bowled over by cricket? (Article)
July 2009
A sport which in its traditional form can take 5 days to complete a match and still end up as a draw may not sound a likely candidate to appeal to American sports fans. But in the last few years ... Login or subscribe here to view
